Howell, Warren Eugene Travel Albums	c.1900-1933	8+ albums	Warren Eugene Howell was an active Seventh-day Adventist administrator and educator. Howell traveled extensively for his Seventh-day Adventist conference work and made multiple albums of postcards and photographs of his travels and his visits with Adventist institutions around the world.
			This album contains a medley of both international and national travels, photographs of family and friends, and postcards from and newspaper clippings about Howell's daughter, Felice Waldo Howell, an artist, and scenes from various Seventh-day Adventist institutions where Howell worked.		Family and Travels
			Howell visited Europe in 1921 and wrote a series of reports called "Christian Education in Europe" about his experiences for the Review and Herald that mirror many of the images in the album. The images include Adventist educators and students, European landmarks, and famous European figures.		Europe

			Howell visited Africa, China, Myanmar, Sri Lanka and India in 1923 and frequently wrote about his experiences for the Review and Herald and other Seventh-day Adventist publications. This album consists of photographs and postcards primarily from the early 1920's in India and the surrounding areas. The images include Adventist educators and students, landmarks, and famous figures as well as pictures of the train derailment he experienced on the Ceylon Railroad in January 1923.		India
			The Pacific album consists of photographs and postcards acquired during Howell's turn-of-the-century time in Hawaii, as well as his 1923 tour of China, Japan, the Phillipines and other Pacific lands. The images include Adventist educators and missionaries, students, and landmarks.		The Pacific
			Howell visited South America in 1920 and wrote about his experiences in a series of Review and Herald columns called "School Notes in South America." There are three albums dedicated to South American travels, consisting of photographs and postcards acquired during Howell's 1920 and 1927 tours of South America. The images include Adventist educators and students, landmarks, and famous figures.		South America Album I II III
			World Tour features an assortment of photographs and postcards collected on multiple trips to multiple regions of the world. The majority of the images include Adventist educators and students, landmarks, and famous figures from the 1920's.		World Tour
